WoolWench goes LIVE

Did you ever have a secret? One you kept for ages, that only a few special people knew along with you, and then one day, you could tell the world! That is what is going to happen for me tomorrow! For what seems like ages, yet at the same time, no time, I have been playing with this secret, the THING that Majacraft is making and launching TOMORROW during our very first FiberyGoodness livestream!

Arlene (SpinArtiste), Andy (Majacraft) and I are going to be talking about our theme - 'Community' - for the livestream, and I feel very honoured to have been able to enjoy some of this community and cooperative creativity with the wonderful people at Majacraft, and have some input into the development and testing of this new product which will launch tomorrow with this live broadcast. I LOVE the thing! and I am sure lots of other people will too. And I can't say any more than that until tomorrow, during the livestream!

I CAN tell you the livestream airs at THIS LOCATION at 7pm EST. It will remain available after the broadcast for anyone who might miss it live.

In the meantime, in this newsletter I wanted to share one of the new 'ply recipe tutorials' I am currently developing, I hope you enjoy it!

Bubble Bumps

WoolWench

Bubble Bumps

Basically a chain plied yarn, made with the following steps

Two very bulky Z spun singles (in this example I used a hand painted roving split in two, one half for each single)

Spiral ply each bulky single with a thread in the S direction, by holding the thread straight towards you and the bulky single in your other hand at about a 40 degree angle, to 'spiral' around the thinner thread. Be sure to over-ply it to create lots of extra twist.

Ply these two two-plys together, allowing the extra twist of the previous ply to 'link' the cable together and balance out in the yarn.
